What is Drug Court

Drug Court is a judicially supervised alternative to incarceration and includes drug, driving under the influence, and other specialty court dockets aimed at increasing public safety, increasing offender accountability, and decreasing recidivism from chemically dependent offenders. Drug Courts are managed by a non-adversarial and multidisciplinary team including judges, prosecutors, defense attorneys, probation, treatment providers, and law enforcement.

Mission

The mission of the Pennington County Drug Court program is to increase community safety, break the cycle of addiction, and foster healthy families by holding offenders accountable through a judicially-monitored court program to promote long-term recovery.

Program Outline

The Pennington County Drug Court is a post-adjudication treatment court for offenders who are substantially affected by drug and/or alcohol addiction. Drug Court is a voluntary program, and is abstinence-based and intensive in nature. Drug Court includes regular appearances before the Drug Court judge, frequent and random drug and alcohol testing, addiction counseling in individual and group settings, mental health counseling in individual and group settings, a system of behavior modification based on incentives and sanctions, assessment for participation in complementary treatment and social services, participation in community support groups and pro-social activities, employment or education programs, and intense community supervision by the Drug Court team. The Pennington County Drug Court requires participants to participate in community support groups and to be employed.

The Pennington County Drug Court is a 5-phase intervention program. Drug Court is sobriety-based with specific goals and activities required in each phase. Once phase requirements are met, transition to the next phase will occur with approval from the Drug Court team. The program length differs for each participant, but is no less than 14 months.
